

THE FUTURE OF INDIA

Predicted by Bishop Thoburn in a Talk Last Night.

WORK OF THE METHODIST CHURCH

Bearing Good Fruit—The Successful System Adopted—A good Native Preacher to be Had for a Hundred Dollars—How the People Live—Indian Girls Getting Independent.

Bishop Thoburn's plain, matter of fact, unadorned recital of the history of the Methodist Church in India, and his representation of what the future of that country would be, was interesting in the extreme. That the bishop is thoroughly in earnest, and that he fully believes that a great Christian future stands before the land of the Juggernaut, no hearer can remain in doubt. He had a good audience at the Fourth Street Methodist Church last night; a very attentive audience, and one composed not only of the members of his own church, but of most of the other Protestant denominations.

The theme of the talk was the "future of India," and in dilating on that subject the bishop gave a brief resume of the work the church had formerly carried through in India. When the bishop told his hearers, that the establishment of a complete mission in India was equivalent to establishing one in all the different countries of Europe, and then crossing over to the African coast and starting a few in that land of darkness, his American audience had a very vivid idea of the magnitude of the undertaking. The last census taken in India showed that there were two hundred and eight millions of people within its borders, and the lecturer proved that his statement was not hyperbolic. Among these two hundred and eight million thirteen distinct languages are spoken, differing among each other as the tongues of Europe vary. One hundred million speak the Hindoostanee language, forty million the Bengali, and from nine to fifteen millions of voices address each other in each of

THE REMAINING ELEVEN TONGUES.

In his preliminary remarks Bishop Thoburn had warned his hearers, that he did not think he could always manage to hold himself down to his theme; he did make a digression or two, but what he said was worth listening to, and well worthy of being pondered over. It is his opinion that the American people is destined to be the great missionary people of the world; just as the English can teach Americans, some things, and the Germans the English, so the Americans will show the world how to convert to Christianity. In arriving at this theme, the Bishop spoke of the material future before India.

"The world will not forever be a jumble of a hundred different nationalities," said the bishop. "The time is coming, I think, when there will be several great nationalities. Besides the United States of North America, there will be the United States of South America; the empire of Great Britain will make way for a republic of several countries, the inhabitants of which now speak different languages; the empire of Russia will be one of the great powers; there will be the empire of the United States of Africa; and India, at some time, will become one of the great powers of the earth. She should be prepared for that destiny, so that she may worthily take her place among the nations of the globe.

"When I was in the patent office at Washington I saw over six thousand models of inventions. India is now in the same condition. She is now in the time of Solomon. She invents nothing. I will give you something to think of, young men. Do you know that no nation on the globe that has rejected Christ

HAS AN INVENTIVE GENIUS?

It's a fact. The Chinese may have invented at some time in their history, but they have ceased invention. Japan doesn't invent; neither does Arabia. In India they use the same plow that was in use a thousand years ago, and they will continue to use it and continue to be a non-inventive people until the light of Christianity has permeated their country. What prospects are there of the inhabitants of India becoming Christians? I will tell you.

"It has been shown that the religion of Christ was introduced into India hundreds of years ago, it is supposed, by the Nestorians, whether as missionaries or refugees is not known. The Portuguese, in sailing around the Cape of Good Hope, tried to make it prevail by the sword; the result was a failure. It is the general belief that Xavier, the Roman Catholic missionary, succeeded. This is a mistake. Danish missionaries tried to introduce Christianity, but the chief attempt in modern times was when Dr. Carey, of England, left on a mission over a hundred years ago. The work was slow, and at the end of the century Christianity had not yet taken root. Fifty years ago converts were counted by thousands and tens of thousands. Our own church was tardy; a missionary died two years ago who went to India two years before I was born, and yet I was the first Methodist missionary who went to India.

"In the old days it was the plan to put a mission in each province. That plan will never do to-day. In those days the people never stirred. There were no railroads, no public conveyances. I have seen men who had never been

"We have now one of the largest Methodist congregations in the world at Calcutta, where people from all parts of the country are gathered. We worked on these people, and that's why we are to-day teaching Christianity in thirteen languages. When I went back to India, four years ago, I saw a great many new faces among the congregations, these men having been converted by the native pastor teachers. Eighteen hundred people had been converted while I was away. Instead of 1,800 I expect to have 5,000 new converts this year.

"The chief difficulty to contend with is the caste system. Instead of four castes as is commonly supposed, there are a thousand. The members of these castes never drink from the same cup; they never smoke from the same pipe; they never sit on the same seats; they never intermarry. They are of the same race, the same extraction, they have the same talents; but out of two hundred and eight millions forty millions are of the lowest caste. You will know what this means when I tell you that the low caste children are not allowed to go to school.

"The missionaries formerly thought it was better to convert the higher caste people and use them as the leaven for the lower castes. Had I had my way when I first went over, I would have adopted this plan and would have first converted a few influential men. I would never adopt it now. Paying more attention to the low caste people has not blocked our way with the high caste, for no missionaries baptize more "HIGH CASTE CONVERTS THAN WE."

The Bishop did not think the American Methodists would be much edified by the way the Indian converts observed the Sabbath. They will not steal, bear false witness, commit adultery or swear, but they cannot grasp its entirety the idea of the Christian Sabbath. He arrived one time in a village of converts, and saw the women sitting before their doors, spinning. They did not think that was work. The men will cease their daily avocations until they have attended church, and upon their return from meeting will think nothing of doing servile labor. But the converted Indian is a sworn enemy of the deceitful booze, and in a community of five thousand native Christians he knows of only two who were disciplined during the year that he was there. None had been caught gambling, though the natives of India are fond of games of chance. Some globe trotters and some military men had said that the Methodist converts were nothing but packs of drunkards, but these witnesses, the Bishop said, had not been out in the country among the people.

The American girls smiled in approval when the missionary told them that the members of their sex in India, at least those who had been converted, were beginning to know something of their natural rights, and sometimes refused to marry the men their parents had selected for them. The bishop knew of eighteen years old, who were not married, and didn't intend to take a husband, either, until they got ready. Child marriage among the converts was getting rarer every day, the audience would be glad to hear. The bishop thought it would be a good thing if 500 American girls were sent over to India to teach the women.

It seemed strange, in this land of butcher shops and green grocers, to listen to an account of the food with which the poor inhabitants stilled their hunger. Five cents a day being the average wages, of course it stood to reason that there was not much chance for luxuries. When the native woman's husband turns over to her his wages, and it is about time to go to market, she starts out with a coin of the value of three-fourths of a cent, divided into sixty-four cowries. With much trepidation, lest she may be getting extravagant, she enters the little shop of the village. Here she haggles a long time over the purchase of a little piece of salt as big as a hazel nut, or even as small as a grain of wheat, salt being a great luxury to the poor soul. A red pepper or two and a couple of vegetables she brings home with the salt, and having in her leisure moments gathered some weeds for greens, she is ready to cook dinner. The rice the family has raised is to be the piece de resistance, as it is for all the days of the year, and while boiling this she puts the red pepper and the weeds in, and the meal is soon ready. For supper—they take only two meals a day—the family eats a sort of cake made of millet seed.

PROSPECTS THE VERY BRIGHT.

Schooling is cheap in India, and a year's education for a boy costs about fifteen dollars. Native preachers, or pastor teachers, as they are called, come cheap. A pretty fair one can be hired for twenty-five or thirty dollars a year, a better grade brings fifty, and a pastor teacher who understands English fairly well and has to buy books, and who subscribes to an English paper, gets as high as a hundred dollars a year. Bishop Thoburn thinks there is a bright future before India as a Christian country. All that is needed is funds, and $30,000 will go a great ways. So great is the faith of this missionary, that he thinks the time is not so very far distant, when he can lead an assault on the gates of hell with a million Christians at his back. "In fact," said he, closing his talk, "I think the prospects in India are so bright; the work that will be done is so vast; its success is so assured, that if I were to tell you what will transpire, you would think I was a wild man, and one who doesn't study the situation with deliberation."

AT THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The meetings in the First Presbyterian church continue to grow in interest. Rev. A. B. Marshall preached with great tenderness and power last evening and will preach again to-night, and also Thursday and Friday evenings. The congregations are large, and are manifesting a deep and powerful interest in the gracious work of the Spirit.

OUR BEARING SEA RIGHTS.

The Canadian Organ Replies to Senator Sherman's Recent Interview.

MONTREAL, March 15.—The Montreal Gazette, the official organ of the Dominion government, in an inspired article, says: "The early portion of Senator Sherman's remarks on the situation of the Bering Sea question is all that could be desired. The tone of the friendliness (which we are glad to acknowledge is no new thing with him) in which he speaks of the relations that ought to prevail between the United States and the motherland does honor to his patriotism. But the senator soon swerves from the line of good will and impartiality and takes things for granted in an astonishing way when he talks of preventing poaching on rights that were purchased from Russia and which the United States have openly asserted and enjoyed for 100 years. We are at a loss to know what this means. It is only twenty-five years since the bargain was concluded by Secretary Seward. It is only eight years since what is meant by the word poaching, was taken any notice of by the United States authorities, and as for purchased rights, those so-called rights, while unpurchased, were disavowed as such by successive Washington administrations.

NEWSPAPERS SEIZED.

ROME, March 15.—Five newspapers, including the Triumfo and the Riforma, have been seized for reporting the proceedings of the Republican Congress.

"HAPPY is the man who has his quiver full of them"—of bottles of Salvation Oil, the greatest cure on earth for pain. Price only 25 cents.

MOTHERS should never fail to keep Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup convenient in order to relieve their little ones of cough speedily and surely. 25 cents.

A SUGGESTION.

We wish to make a suggestion to persons troubled with rheumatism. Try a few applications of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. If that does not bring relief, dampen a piece of flannel with the Pain Balm and bind it on over the sore of pain. The first application is almost sure to relieve the pain, and by its continued use many severe cases have been permanently cured. 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists.

GREAT BARGAINS IN SHOE STORES.

A DESPERATE BATTLE

With Revolvers Between Burglars and Constables on a Crowded Train.

WILMINGTON, DEL., March 15.—A desperate battle with revolvers between four burglars who blew open safes and robbed stores in Milford, Del., Sunday night, and three constables occurred on a rapidly moving train early this morning. The burglars boarded the Norfolk express due here at 4:15 a. m. They were recognized by the constables, who had also boarded the train in pursuit of them. After the train left Dover, the constables attempted to arrest them. The latter retreated to the platform of one of the cars and opened fire, which was returned by the constables. The car in which the fusillade took place was filled with sleepy passengers, who lost no time in getting behind and under the seats. Constable Smith received a flesh wound on the right cheek and a trilling wound on the right hand. The burglars jumped off the train while it was running at a high rate of speed and disappeared in the darkness. It was at first thought that none of them had been hurt but word was received this afternoon that one had been captured near Clayton, who was crippled by a bullet wound in the thigh. The man gave the name of James Burns, of Wilmington.

Parkersburg Primaries.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

PARKEBURG, March 15.—Last night at the Republican city primaries the following gentlemen were selected to carry the flag to victory on the first Tuesday in April: First ward, Frank S. Smith; Second ward, C. M. Jones; Third ward, Samuel Keenan; Fourth ward, Henry Nem.

The Democrats put up the following nominations: First ward, James Morrison; Second ward, J. P. McNeerney; Third ward, W. H. F. Kelly; Fourth ward, Otto Schmau.

McNeerney, on the Democratic ticket in the Second ward, is the saloonkeeper who was nominated last year and defeated. He is known as the Tammany chieftain of Parkersburg.

Morgantown Gets Electric Lights.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

MORGANTOWN, W. VA., March 15.—The Morgantown Electric Light and Power Company has signed a contract with the Edison General Electric Company, of Pittsburgh, through its manager, I. H. Silverman, for a complete electric light plant having a capacity of 100 horse power, including incandescent and arc lights for the streets, stores and residences. The plant is to be completed within sixty days and is to embody the latest Edison improvements.

With the Russian Relief Ship.

New York Press.

Ex-Senator Henry G. Davis, of West Virginia, with his wife, were in New York yesterday, accompanied by their son, Henry G. Davis, Jr., who will sail for Libau to-day on the Missouri, the steamship which is carrying a cargo of grain and breadstuffs to the starving Russians. Young Davis goes out as an agent to assist in the proper disposition of the cargo. The Davis party inspected the Missouri yesterday, and the Senator and Mrs. Davis went to Baltimore last night. They had intended to sail to Cuba on a voyage of recreation to-day, accompanied by Secretary and Mrs. S. B. Elkins, but as the secretary could not go, their daughter also decided to remain at home, and they followed suit, too.

"AYER'S Medicines have been satisfactory to me throughout my practice, especially Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which has been used by many of my patients, one of whom says he knows it saved his life."—F. L. Morris, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

There is no danger from whooping cough when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is freely given. It liquefies the tough, tenacious mucus and aids in its expectoration. It also lessens the severity and frequency of the paroxysms of coughing, and insures a speedy recovery. There is not the least danger in giving it to children or babies, as it contains no injurious substance. 50 cent bottles for sale by C. R. Goetz, W. W. Irwin, John Klari, C. Schnepf, C. Menkemiller, W. S. McCullough, M. W. Heinrici, W. E. Williams, S. L. Brice, John Coleman and W. H. Williams, Wheeling, W. Va.; Bowie & Co., Bridgeport, Ohio; B. F. Peabody, Benwood, W. Va.

King of Medicines

And His Cure Was

Almost a Miracle

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

"Gentlemen: When I was 14 years of age I was confined to my bed for several months by an attack of rheumatism, and when I had partially recovered I did not have the use of my legs, so that I had to go on crutches. About a year later, Scrofula, in the form of

appeared on various parts of my body, and for eleven years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed six years. In that time ten or eleven of these sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. Several times pieces of bone worked out of the sores. Physicians did not help me and

I Became Discouraged

"I went to Chicago to visit a sister, as it was thought a change of air and scene might do me good. But I was confined to my bed most of the time. I was so impressed with the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in cases similar to mine that I decided to try it. So a bottle was bought, and to my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and began to feel better. This strengthened my faith in the medicine, and in a short time I was

Up and Out of Doors

To make a long story short, I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for a year, when I had become fully released from the chains of disease that I took a position with the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since that time have not lost a single day on account of sickness. I always feel well, am in good spirits, and have a good appetite. I endorse for it has been a great blessing to me, and to my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous. I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of all medicines." WILIAM A. LEHR, No. 9 North Railroad st., Kendallville, Ind.

A TRAGIC ENCOUNTER

With Moonshiners in Kentucky by a County Sheriff.

PINESVILLE, KY., March 15.—On Sunday last, in Leslie county, thirty miles from this place, Sheriff Lewis and his deputy had a tragic meeting with two moonshiners. They were Henry and Frank Brown, who, besides making illicit whisky, were proprietors of a resort of demerit outlaws. When the sheriff and deputy attempted to make an arrest the Browns opened fire with Winchester rifles. Sheriff Lewis received a scalp wound at the first fire, but the fire was returned with telling effect and both Browns were brought down. Frank Brown is perhaps fatally wounded. Henry had a leg broken by the sheriff's bullet.

The Bucket Shop Crusade.

CHICAGO, March 15.—Judge Clifford, in the criminal court to-day, instructed the grand jury to make an investigation, and in case it should find that there are any bucket shops running in the city, to indict their proprietors. It is well known that there are many such concerns in operation.
